Shadows and Darkness

Michael Seligman

I see the shadows of fallen men
They lie upon the moor
Sometimes I wonder to myself
If I myself will end up falling
My shadows and my darkness
The anger deep inside
I try to say to myself that all will be just fine
I walk on paths that curve and wind
Leading me here and there
My shadows and my darkness
Follow me like no other man
The stink of death surrounds me so
Like nothing I have encountered before
I feel the hint of ignorance
Towards me when I am around
I try to show that all will be well
If you could only see
My mind is cluttered with my thoughts
That will never see the light
Surrounding and encasing me in molten lava rock
They try to keep me from helping out whenever I am around
This darkness that I feel tonight
Erodes me like a nail
The angry winds that brush the trees
Tell me that it might be done
My mind can now rest in peace, if all is just fine
But for now all is wrong, so I will never be well.
